Tiffany Sherrill joined Moore Ingram Johnson & Steele, LLP in 2015. Tiffany is a member of the Civil Litigation department with a concentration in workers' compensation insurance defense.

Tiffany was a member of the Honors College at Middle Tennessee State University where she obtained her B.S. in Political Science with a minor in Psychology. After completing her undergraduate degree, she attended Belmont University College of Law where she graduated magna cum laude in the top 5% of her class. During law school, she served as the Executive Symposium Editor for the Law Review and as the academic research assistant for former Alabama Supreme Court Justice, Harold See. She received Best Performance Awards in her Business Associations, Torts, and Trademarks classes. She was admitted to the Tennessee Bar in 2015.

Tiffany currently lives in Knoxville and enjoys traveling, yoga, and spending time with family and friends.
